

10 QUESTIONS YOU MUST ASK WHEN CHOOSING A SENIOR LIVING FACILITY

1. What are the senior care and living needs of your loved one?
2. What does your budget allow?
3. Are the buildings and grounds in good shape and well-maintained?
4. Do interior spaces have odors, clutter or unclean areas?
5. Do the residents appear to be well-groomed, active and happy?
6. Are staff members friendly and attentive?
7. Does the facility have a good ratio of caregivers to residents?
8. Is the location convenient and close to family and friends?
9. Do the physical care levels offered meet your current and future needs?
10. Is the facility pet friendly?

Questions like these are the first of many when it comes to navigating through the complex process of choosing a senior living facility for your loved one. While these questions are important, you will likely have many others that are specific to your family's needs.

Indeed, making smart choices starts with asking critical questions and evaluating what you learn. That's where we come in. At Senior Living Advisor, we make it easier for you to make better decisions, so you can be confident you're doing all you can for your senior loved one.
